

Holographic Scanning Protocol For FlorAlive® Leg Length Check

Patient Supine

Loosen hip joints by internally and externally rotating legs/thighs

Measure leg length with slight upward pressure, keeping little fingers underneath the bottoms of the soles of the shoes.

Mentally ask for a “yes”

Note which leg shortens

Mentally ask for a “no”

Note which leg shortens

Normally, a “yes” is indicated by a shortening of the right leg, but left shortening can also be a “yes.”

Mentally find which direction of eyes, called Eyes Into Distortion (EID) will eliminate compensations and interference. If you do not want to use the somewhat complex traditional applied kinesiology method of finding EID, you can simply use holographic scanning to ask the patient’s unconscious which is the EID direction for the eyes to point! The eye direction is in one of the four cardinal points or one of the diagonals. Use EID when beginning manual muscle test evaluation.

View the picture of each flower sequentially, attempting to tap into the energy of each power spot where the flower grows, noting any “yes” reactions indicated by the leg length change. We are projecting the energy of the flower onto the patient’s energy field (superconsciousness) and watching through leg length change whether the body likes or is neutral to the particular flower frequency.

Note which flower projections are producing a “yes” response in leg length change.

Now test kinesiologically using the PMC each semantic statement for each of the corresponding “yes” flowers.

Pt says statements aloud

Pt. should have EID

Pt could hold right earlobe for greater “gain”

Each flower that previously showed an affinity to the body should display a muscle change in response to saying the semantic phrase.

If no reaction:

- A) try blue water lily on body testing for reversal OR
- B) there is possibly another semantic statement for the flower not yet discovered

Go through all “yes” flowers

Now spray the FlorAlive® tester vial into the patient’s mouth (or add 3-5 drops of essence in pt’s mouth) and re-evaluate to see if the muscle weakness or strength is reversed, indicating the proper remedy selection.

A positive statement like “I have the means and power to manifest my dreams” should not weaken a previously strong indicator muscle

A negative statement like “I am destined to suffer.” Should weaken a previously strong indicator muscle.
WHEN MASTERED THIS PROVIDES POWERFUL, INDEPENDENT DIAGNOSTIC INSIGHTS!